Welcome to ONSEN!!
A guide for enjoying Japanese hot springs
Welcome to Onsen

The Japanese Love Onsens

For Japanese, bathing is not only for cleaning, but to refresh the body and spirit. Baths come in several types, including house baths, Sentō (simple public baths), and onsen. The popularity of the Onsen means they play a central role in Japanese domestic tourism. On weekends or vacation, Japanese people often go on an onsen-trip not only to relieve their fatigue but to enhance their mutual relationship with family, friends and co-workers.

What is Onsen?

There are laws in place that regulate the definition, protection, etc. of an Onsen. According to these laws, an Onsen is defined as hot water and water vapor that springs from the Earth either naturally or from artificially-bored holes. The water temperature needs to be higher than 25℃. However, meeting other conditions, the water can be cooler and still be authorized as an Onsen.

History of the Onsen

Japan is a volcanically active country, and as such, Onsen have been used since olden times and are mentioned in Japanese legends and mythologies. Descriptions are found in renowned Japanese texts such as: Kojiki, Nihonshoki, and Manyōshū. During the Kamakura and Sengoku era (12th-17th century), records indicate that the samurai healed their wounds there. In the Edo era (17th-19th century), the culture of onsen spread to common people. In the Meiji era (early 20th century), scientific studies began and by the Shōwa era (mid 20th century) the medical benefits of Onsen were proven. Through the years, more and more people come to use onsen for different reasons. Today people enjoy them not only for medical treatment but also for sightseeing, socializing, and leisure. Onsens are a multipurpose place to have a great time.
Effects of Onsen

Why are Onsens Effective?
The minerals contained in Onsen water have various effects. People call this effect トヨ (hot spring healing, or balneotherapy). A person can feel the effects of mineral water by bathing or by drinking. Only some Onsen are equipped to handle drinking water however, so please check the general guidelines or drinking permission statement before drinking the Onsen Mineral Water. Please do not drink from the bath water itself.

Generally, there are three different types of “rests” that can be appreciated at the onsen. They are as follows:

1. Rest for recreation: recovering from fatigue and becoming refreshed.
2. Rest for health: keeping a healthy condition and preventing against ailments.
3. Rest for medical treatment: recuperation from ailments.

Additional benefits include:

1. Physical Effects: The thermal energy stimulates your nervous system and your circulatory system. The water pressure activates your cardiopulmonary functions. The buoyancy makes it easy for the physically handicapped to bathe as well.
2. Chemical Effects: The minerals are absorbed through your skin into your body and provide various benefits.
3. Change-of-Air Effects: A feeling of freedom from daily life as well as a comfortable atmosphere and natural view can refresh the spirit.
4. Change-of-Condition Effects: By visiting the Onsen routinely, you can appreciate better health and improve your condition.

Ailments Treated by the Onsen

Onsen is recommended for people who have the following ailments and/or conditions:

- Neuralgia, sore muscles, arthritis, stiff shoulders and joints, motor paralysis,
- Bruises, sprains, poor digestive tract, poor circulation, fatigue, and general poor health.
Onsen Ryokans are Japanese style accommodations which are equipped with an onsen. There are various ryokans ranging from the homely atmosphere of a Bed and Breakfast, to the luxury of a resort hotel.

※The following is a general introduction, local conditions may differ.

Enjoying an Onsen Ryokan

Okami-san
Okami-san is the name given to a female who owns and operates a Ryokan. At some Ryokan, the Okami-san will personally welcome you, as well as serve you your meals. It is their goal to provide you with the spirit of hospitality.

Wa-situ
Wa-situ are traditional Japanese-style rooms. They are commonly furnished with tatami mat flooring. Shoes and slippers should not be worn on any tatami mat surface, however slippers are provided for use elsewhere in the Ryokan including lobbies and hallways.

Other Slippers
Guests are requested to use specially designated slippers when entering the restrooms. These slippers are located at the entrance of the restroom and require changing from one pair to another. Please do not use these restroom slippers for any place other than the restroom.

Beware of Splash
Surface, however slippers are provided for use elsewhere in the Ryokan including lobbies and hallways.

Yukata and Haori
In your room, you will find a yukata (informal kimono), an obi (kimono belt), and a haori (a short coat to wear over the kimono). Please feel free to use these items. Several sizes are provided with your room, and additional sizes may be available at the front desk.

Towels
Though some ryokans have towels at the Daiyokuzyo (the public bath place), generally you will take the ones provided with your room. There are several sizes of towels: the small ones are used for washing and are taken with you into the shower and bathing area. The large ones are for drying and are left in the dressing area.

How to Wear Yukata
① Fold the left side of the yukata over the right side. Adjust the length.
② Put the obi (the belt) on and fasten it in on the front side of your waist. It’s also fashionable for men to fasten it in the back.
③ If you feel cold, you can put the haori on over it like a jacket.
Manners at the Onsen

With Yukata and Towels
Before leaving your room, place valuables in the safe and take the key with you. Wearing yukata and obi take your towels to the Daiyokuzyō (a great public bath place).

The Onsen for Men and Women
A daiyokuzyō is generally separated for men and women. Chinese characters are written on the entrance curtains: “男” (man) and “女” (woman) will indicate the appropriate side to enter. Some onsen switch the men and women's bath sides at certain times. For this reason, please pay attention when entering.

Lockers and Baskets
A dressing room is behind the curtain. Please take your slippers off before entering. Lockers and baskets are provided for your clothes. Some locker keys have a strap that goes on your wrist. This may be worn when entering the baths. You may also bring toiletries with you, but they should be left in the shower area. It is recommended they be kept in a small waterproof bag.

Guideline for bathing
First, wash your body
All guests are expected to wash themselves before entering the bath at individual washing points. They have faucets, movable shower heads, and stools. Feel free to use shampoos, hair rinses, and soaps which are provided.

Rinse yourself thoroughly
Please rinse all soaps and conditioners off before entering the bath.

Entering the bath
Please be careful before entering a bath. The water temperature is about from 37℃ to 42℃. Your body may need time to adjust to this temperature. Even though it seems to be too hot, you may not add cold water.

Do not put your towels in the water
You are generally required to set your towel off to the side of the water, or place it on top of your head while bathing. In the latter case, this also helps to prevent a rush of blood to the head.

Types of baths
Onsens come in many types and shapes including "Utiburo" and "Roten-buro." Utiburo is an indoor bath, and roten-buro is an outdoor. Jacuzzi, sauna, and others are parts of uchi-buro. Some onsens have "Denki-yu," (an electric bath), that provide the effect of a good massage.

Keep the Bath Clean!
No swimsuits are to be worn in the baths; however glasses and wrist-keys are allowed. You may also bring a small towel into the bathing area, but it should not touch the bath water. Additionally, hair should be tied up and kept out of the bath to avoid loose strands from falling in.

Electric Bath

Manners to enjoy the onsen.
Let's Go to the Onsen!

No Swimsuit
- Hey, no swimsuit in here!
- In an onsen, you should be naked!
- And don't put your towel in the bath, but on your head instead.
- That's how to enjoy the onsen. (Great!)

Towel on Your Head
- This is great! What a spacious place to take a bath...
- Don't put towels in the bath!
- Over there...
- That's where you wash.
- Put towels on your head not in the bath. This also helps to prevent a rush of blood to the head.
- Oh, I see!

Spirit of Consideration
- Don't stand while taking a shower.
- It's proper manners to sit.
- Otherwise, your splash may bother others.
- It's important to be considerate of others.
- One for all, & all for one!
- The onsen is for everyone!
- We should work together.
- That's right.

It is Hot Enough?
- Too hot!
- Can I cool it down?
- Don't add cold water!
- The temperature differs at each bath.
- You should pick your favorite from them.
- It's no good if they're all the same temperature, is it?
- I think this one is just right.
- There is a bath for everyone.

At first, you may have troubles understanding proper etiquette when visiting the Onsen. However, the most important point is to enjoy yourself without bothering others. Consideration for others is part of the joys of Onsen!
Wash Your Body Thoroughly

Wash yourself thoroughly before entering the bath.

I'm ready! Let's "ONSEN"!

Why don't you enjoy communication at the onsen?

What's this?

It's an "ashi-yu" (foot-bath).

Very easy to enjoy.

Place of Social Relationship

Why don't you give them an opportunity to speak with you?

For BABIES ??

Not big enough for bags!

What are you doing!?

Basket and Locker

Lots of baskets... and tiny lockers...

What do you suppose they're for?

Stop!

What are you doing!?

"Ashi-yu" (Foot-Bath)

Lots of baskets... and tiny lockers...

What do you suppose they're for?

Not big enough for bags!

What are you doing!?

"Ashi-yu" (Foot-Bath)

What's this?

It's an "ashi-yu" (foot-bath).

You can rest your feet while talking with your neighbors.

Time for me to be going.

I should too.

Onsen is a place for socializing.

Are you local?

Where are you from?

What's your name?

Lockers are only for valuables and baskets are for clothes.

They are not for Babies. OK?
Onsen Terms

The following is an introduction to the various words and phrases often used at the Onsen.

Dai-yoku-zyô (lit. the Great Public Bath Place) includes the dressing area, the shower area and the bathing area. Generally separated for men and women.

Utiliburo indoor bath
Rotenburo outdoor bath
Datui-zyo the dressing area
Arai-ba the shower area
Kake-yu (or Kaburi-yu) The act of pouring Onsen bath water on yourself before entering the bath. This is recommended so your body can acclimate to the heat of the Onsen water. It can also help prevent a temporary rise of blood pressure that often accompanies a sudden entry into a hot bath. It is customary to begin with your feet and continue upwards, little by little, until you reach your head. After this process, it should be easier to enter the bath.

Naga-yu taking a bath for a long time
It is advised that you do not spend too much time in one bath to avoid Yu-atari
Yu-atari is the bad influences of Naga-yu. Naga-yu can lead to a temporary rise in blood pressure, an increase in heart rate, and dizziness. It is advised to take several breaks outside of the bath in order to prevent these conditions.

Utase-yu An area of onsen where the water falls down from a high place. The water is meant to fall onto your shoulders, back, and waist to provide a massaging effect.

Ne-yu A long bath where one can lie down

Nuru-yu A bath where the temperature is kept below 37°C (usually around 36°C). This bath is advised if normal bath temperatures are uncomfortable. Additionally, longer baths are possible at this temperature.

Lykusituru-Roten-buro This type of roten-buro is a private bath equipped to a hotel room. It is for the private use for the guests of that room only.

Let’s speak Nihon-Go!!
Nihon-go means the Japanese Language. The following is an introduction to other Japanese words and phrases you can use at the Onsen. Have fun and try them out!

“ Gokuraku, Gokuraku!” (It’s Heaven!) Fundamentally, Gokuraku means heaven in Buddhist terms. However, People can simply use the word to express great comfort. It seems that, by enjoying Onsen, people feel as if they are in heaven.

“I Yu Dana” (Hot springs are great!)
“ I Kimoti” (It feels nice.)
“Atu” (hot)
“Tumetai” (cold)
“Subarasi” (fantastic)
“Tanosi” (fun)
“Onsen-wa, hazimete-desu” (This is my first time to an Onsen)
“Onsen-ga, daisuki-desu” (I really like Onsen)

We love onsen, too.

Foreigners who live in Japan have become big fans of onsen.

A hot spring is like a pub

Amanda Harlow

Going to a hot spring in Japan is like going to a pub in England - it’s the place where the locals go to relax and be themselves. So you can visit Japan and just see the tourist sights - but to meet real Japan it’s essential to take off your clothes, slosh that water around and get naked!

My big hope is that the G8 world leaders will take the plunge together and REALLY communicate because that’s what onsen are all about.

Don’t miss out on the Japanese hot spring

Martin Y. Triche

It’s easy for any visitor to Japan to fall in love with the food, people, and culture, no matter the length of their stay. One thing tourists often miss out on, though, is the simple delight that is the Japanese hot spring. Some might be a bit timid when it comes to the idea of stripping down and hopping in a bath full of people you’ve never met, but it’s amazing how quickly that bashfulness disappears once you slip into the water. A nice little soak can do wonders to erase the fatigue from a long day of work (or sightseeing), and will leave you feeling relaxed and refreshed.

So what are you waiting for? Take the plunge!
